

IoT security service (Case study)

The goal of this project is to create a mobile app that receives live video feeds from different IP cameras. Upon receiving the captured picture, your application confirms its validity using the camera's unique ID. A notification is sent to admins and other stakeholders if the received clips have been hacked (mismatch with camera ID).